FARM SEEDS

PRICES TO THE
WHOLESALE SEED TRADE

FEBRUARY 23, 1953

SEED QUALITY FIRST

Seed quality is more important than ever. With farm income still falling and farm costs rising, farmers cannot afford to take chances on inferior seed. Seed cost is only a fraction of their investment in a particular crop. Land, labor, buildings, machinery, fertilizer, etc. are the major farming costs. With such a sizeable investment already at stake it is very important for a farmer to plant the best seed possible to protect his total investment.

Talk quality to farmers. Show them that you have to look beyond an analysis tag to determine real value. Two lots of seed may show the same germination and purity. Yet one may contain weeds, not considered noxious by your state, yet very troublesome in the field. These would not appear on a tag. The same lot might contain a heavy percentage of thin seed. Thin seed sprouts under ideal conditions but usually dies out if field conditions are difficult. Thin seed won't show on a tag.

Sell Northland to your farmers. Northland is bright plump seed, processed especially to remove thin seeds and troublesome weeds. With seed cost being very favorable this year, a farmer cannot afford to take chances on inferior seed.
